CANNON RULES AS THE CZAR AGAIN

MEMBERS ANGRILY WARNED BY THE SPEAKER TO PRESERVE ORDER.

INSURGENTS QUIET TODAY

Regular Monday Business Is Conducted Without Any Serious Inconvenience To the Regulars.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—Despite reports that today's session would see a resumption of the trouble of Friday and Saturday and that Cannon would be short of the remaining plumes of his glory, today's session was most quiet.

Demands Order.

When the house met the attendance was very small and the speaker had great difficulty in maintaining order. However, he angrily asserted his authority and warned the members that they must obey the orders of the chair and they quieted down somewhat.

Had Conference.

Before the session began both the regulars and insurgents had separate conferences and on the surface it appeared as though there would be no further trouble at least for the present. The next trouble will come when the rebels meet as a committee of the whole in party caucus.

May Be Regulars.

The insurgents' leaders promised that their faction would meet with the regular republicans in party caucus to name the six republican members of the new committee on rules and it is probable that none of the insurgents will be given a place on this important committee.

Cannon Simply Out.

If this is true then nothing has been gained by the fight beyond the fact that Speaker Cannon is ousted from the committee as a member as it is safe to say the new committee will adopt similar rules to those now in use in the house.

In the Senate.

The Senate Judiciary committee today voted favorably on the nomination of William S. Kenyon of Iowa, to be assistant attorney general. The committee also voted to report favorably on a pension of five thousand dollars for the widow of two presidents, Mrs. Grover Cleveland and Mrs. Benjamin Harrison.

PRACTICALLY SURE THAT VOTERS WILL DECIDE QUESTION

"Balcons or No Saloons in Janesville"
—More Than 400 Names Have Been Secured for the Petition.

More than four hundred names, nearly twice as many as are necessary to bring the matter of "saloons or no saloons, for Janesville" up before the voters at the spring election, have been secured, according to Rev. J. W. Laughlin of the Presbyterian church, one of the leaders of the movement. The petition will be filed with the city clerk either Tuesday or Wednesday.

Now that the local optimists have succeeded in their initial move, their energies will be concentrated on bringing out as large a vote as possible at the election. There is no fear that the petition has been filed too late nor that it will be challenged on the score that a number of the signatures are fraudulent, for those who circulated the papers took good care that there were no R. P. Van Winkle's or "Fuddy" Roosevelt's on the lists.

There may be a few more names secured today but no special effort will be made in that direction. To boost the temperance cause, a mass meeting has been called for Thursday night at the Y. M. C. A. building when temperance advocates will give addresses.

FREIGHT TRAINS IN A HEAD-END SMASH

Collision Near Stoughton Last Saturday Night Blocked Tracks for Hours.

Train number 145 on the C. M. & St. Paul Ry., due here from Chicago at 8:50 p. m., was forced to proceed to Madison over the tracks of the Chicago & North-Western road last Saturday evening on account of a head-end collision between an extra freight train and a Prairie du Chien way freight near Stoughton, which blocked the track completely. In the hope that the way would soon be cleared, the train was held here until midnight but when it was found that nothing could be done before morning, permission was received from the North-Western to use their tracks. Except for the damage incident to the derailment of several cars, no great harm was done by the wreck.

"TEMPERANCE" IS TO BE THE TOPIC

Of Discussion Before the Social Union Club Tomorrow Evening—Rev. T. D. Williams Will Lead.

"Temperance" will be the subject discussed at the March meeting of the Social Union Club at the Y. M. C. A. building tomorrow evening and Rev. T. D. Williams will act as leader. The topics and speakers are to be as follows:

1.—"Who Pays the Bills?" by W. C. Dean of Beloit, editor of "Citizens' Advance."

2.—"The Present Outlook," by Rev. E. D. Kohlstedt, pastor of the Beloit M. E. church.

3.—"Prohibition not Practical in the Present Time?"—General Discussion.

FORTY PASSENGERS KILLED AND FORTY ARE MAIMED WHEN TRAIN LEFT TRACK

Horrible Catastrophe Results When C. R. I. & P. Passenger is Ditched Near Green Mountain Iowa.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Marshalltown, Iowa, March 21.—The St. Paul-Waterloo passenger train on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific derailed this morning on the Great Western, went into a ditch a mile and one-half north of Green Mountain. It is reported twenty-five were killed and a score or more injured.

Death List Grows.

It is now believed that the dead may reach forty and the injured as many more. The engine jumped the track and stuck in the mud bank so suddenly as to cause the cars to telescope upon each other. Details of the disaster are meager.

The identified dead are: Jacob Neuhof, conductor; Ross, fireman; C. Harter, brakeman; Archie Price, colored porter, all of Cedar Rapids.

The dead in the wreck now total forty-five. Prof. L. W. Purcell, Iowa State Teachers' college, Cedar Falls, died shortly after reaching the hospital in this city. An unknown woman was brought to the morgue here.

No effort yet made has established the identity of the dead owing to the fact that the wounded needed the attention of the rescue party.

BELoit PRESENTED WITH BRASS CANNON

Relic of Civil War, to Be Used As Monument to Fourth Wisconsin
Battery, Received Today.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Beloit, Wis., March 21.—The city today received from the around at Rock Island a four-inch brass cannon that did service in the Civil war. The gun is well mounted and in a good state of preservation but is not intended for use, but as a monument to the old soldiers. It will be dedicated to the memory of the Fourth Wisconsin battery, organized in Beloit in 1861. The gun was given the city through the efforts of David Moore, a Beloit man who was long a resident of Washington, D. C., and the city paid the freight. The Grand Army Post will be asked to name the location for the gun. There are forty cannon balls with it and these will be stacked beside the gun. Several sites are suggested, and one is in front of the public library. Others want it placed at the entrance of the city cemetery.

The presence of the cannon creates interest among the old soldiers and relatives war members.

Health Situation Better.

The health situations are encouraging. Only one new case of scarlet fever has been reported in three days and the small pox patient is doing well. He is kept in a tent near the detention hospital and is well cared for. He contracted this disease at a town in Minnesota but had no thought that he had been exposed until he was taken down here.

Head director A. N. Bort of the Modern Woodmen of America is home for a few days from his travels in the interests of the great insurance order. He will attend the meeting of Good Fellowship Club in Milwaukee Friday night. Mr. Bort is one of the managers of the Woodmen's tuberculosis sanitarium at Colorado Springs, Colorado and has just been there and brings fine reports of the efficiency of the sanitarium in curing those afflicted with the white plague.

The building season has opened with activity in all parts of the city. Many residences are under way as well as the shop enlargements that have attracted attention.

FIGHT IS ON FOR LOVERING'S SEAT

Campaign In The Fourteenth Massachusetts Congressional District Has Been a Lively One.

Boston, Mass., March 21.—An election is to be held in the Fourteenth Massachusetts congressional district tomorrow to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative William C. Lovering. The campaign which closed today has been one of the liveliest that Massachusetts has had for several years. With the country surveying it as a barometer of public opinion on the issue of the Taft Administration and in view of the political uncertainty attending the cost of living agitation, the result of the election is regarded as of national interest and importance.

Three candidates are in the field, William R. Dickerman, Republican; Eugene N. Foss, Democrat, and John McCarthy, Socialist. The district is normally Republican by 12,000 to 14,000 in presidential years, but the plurality usually given was greatly cut down in the last election. This fact has given the Democrats ground for hope that they may be successful in tomorrow's contest. The Republican managers profess to have not the slightest fear of losing the district to a Democrat, but at the same time they have decided it wise in a matter of pre-emption to put Senator Lodge and other prominent party leaders and orators on the stump in the interest of the Republican candidate.

John D. Rockefeller has many other grandchildren, but John D. III. has always been his favorite, and it has been understood that the bulk of his fortune would some day descend upon the eldest son of the Oil King's only son. It has always been a subject of interest to some persons with a mathematical turn of mind to figure out how large would be the fortune which John D. III. would some day inherit. Nobody, perhaps not even Mr. Rockefeller himself, knows the amount of his present wealth more than approximately. It has been variously estimated at from $200,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 and some well acquainted with the affairs of the Oil King, have expressed the opinion that even the larger amount is a conservative estimate.

Accepting $1,000,000,000 as the basis of their calculations, mathematicians have figured out that this amount, at simple interest of 3 per cent would have grown to $2,500,000,000 in fifty years. But, of course, the establishment of the Rockefeller foundation would alter the situation. The wealth would probably increase at a moderate rate, in spite of the benefactions distributed by the foundation, as only the interest of the endowment would be used; but the bulk of that tremendous fortune would not be in the hands of John D. Rockefeller III., although, undoubtedly, he would succeed his father in the control of the fund.

In the announcements of his candidacy for the Lovering seat Mr. Foss declared himself in favor of free underlets, lower cost for necessities, better trade relations with "our neighbors," the income tax and conservation.

BIG THREE EASTERN COLLEGES DEBATE

Merits of the Income Tax to Be Argued by Representatives of Yale, Princeton and Harvard.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Princeton, N. J., March 21.—Unusual interest is manifested in the second annual triangular debate between chosen representatives of Harvard, Princeton and Yale, which is to be held this evening. The interest in the debate is greater than usually aroused by intercollegiate debates, owing to the important subject which has been chosen for this occasion. The subject selected is: "Resolved, That the federal government should have power to impose an income tax, not apportioned among the states according to population." The debate will be held simultaneously in Cambridge, New Haven and Princeton, each college upholding the negative side at home and the affirmative side away from home. Each college will be represented by two teams, one remaining at home, the other meeting its opposing team at one of the other universities.

Modern Helplessness.
The best inheritance that either boy or girl may have is that of resourcefulness and self-reliance. It is a common experience of those who employ the best brought up children of the present day, the young men who go to the best schools and acquire themselves well at the universities, that they are afflicted with a kind of helplessness. This is a matter, adds Country Life, to which the attention of education leaders should be directed.

Night Riders Come Here

No moderate degree of excitement was stirred up locally by the appearance on the down-town thoroughfares Wednesday afternoon of a tallyho drawn by a pair of prancing horses and containing a quartette of figures closely cloaked and hooded in black. One of the queer, spectral-looking figures was blowing a trumpet, and a legend: "See the Night Riders!" floated from the sides of the harness. Inquiry developed the fact that the turnout was nothing more nor less than an ad for the "Night Riders" picture which is on exhibition at the Majestic Theatre on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Hood & Browning, who own and control the Night Riders pictures have been on Reelfoot Lake, Tenn., in the heart of the Night Rider district, and also in the famous "Black Patch" of Kentucky, and are familiar with the terrorizing methods used by the "Men Who Ride at Night."

They were members of one of the posse who insisted in running down this desperate gang of men. The pictures are realistic portrayals of actual scenes just as they happened there. They present the organization of the Night Riders, crimes committed by them, including the whipping of men who refused to obey orders, burning of houses, reproducing the scene where Rankin and Taylor were dragged from their rooms in the hotel to the marshes. Mowers, Hood and Browning give interesting lectures throughout the program.

Primrose Dresses

We have taken the agency for the well known Primrose Brand of Dresses for children and misses. Sizes run from 4 to 16 years. The workmanship on these garments is unusually good. They will bear the closest inspection. We show these in fine Percales and Ginghams in a large variety of fancy stripes, dots, checks and plain colorings. They are taking the girls quite by storm. Mothers appreciate the exceptionally clever styles and when they learn the prices they say "no more making dresses at home." We cannot emphasize too strongly the beautiful workmanship. Nothing slighted and they fit so nicely. We consider ourselves fortunate in being able to secure the Primrose line as the manufacturers are old at the business which they understand from A to Z. Their wide experience is reflected in every garment. The prices are lower than you would expect.

There is no community but could be made better and no individual but whose life could be improved.

There have been at different times movements started against evils prevailing and the men and women of the church have done their utmost in fighting against these evils. It seems to come in seasons like the season when the housewife begins to cleanse her house of all dust and dirt.

You remember when the church had so determined and analyzed every thing that the individual lost all his rights in the church and the community, there came a period of church reform when many people broke with the established church and sought to set up another church, where there was more freedom of religious thought. But even this did not satisfy all and many of them came to our nation here in searching for religious freedom.

When the rule of the English monarchy became oppressive then these same people began a fight for their freedom and in spite of enormous obstacles placed in their way fought determinedly until they had won. The same spirit prevailed at the opening of the Civil War. There were those who believed that slavery was right and were honest in their beliefs. The question of the right of a man to control the lives of negroes was fought out on the Southern battlefields and now we know that the North was right in its fight for the freedom of slaves, but that question has hardly settled yet.

Right along with that movement comes this movement against the open saloons. There are two groups of men in this controversy. One side says that the open saloon must go while on the other hand there are men—the property owners whose buildings are leased for the traffic and the men whose appetites crave liquor—who oppose the shutting up of the saloons. Right has won out in the other movements and it will win out in this. The men who fought for personal and religious liberty did not give up and we in a cause just as vital should say that we will never give up until we have accomplished our purpose. I hope the day will come when we will be entirely free from the oppression of the open saloon. The question naturally comes up: Who is going to come to the front and lead this movement. The church has been at the forefront in other movements and I think it will come forward in this case.

"You know how high the prices in meat shops are? If you go to the meat shop and pay a high price for the meat you get, you are the better for it—you are a stronger and better man. If you go to the clothing store and purchase a suit of clothes or some other article of clothing you are better for it—it improves your appearance. But let a man go into a saloon and is he any better for it? Would you rather meet him, talk with him, or smell his breath? When you go into a saloon you just get hell handed out to you in small doses. Out of the distilled liquors, 7,000,000,000 drinks were handed out over American bars last year. That is gallon and a half apiece for every man, woman and child in the country and one hundred drinks for every man, woman, or child in the United States. Well, you say, half of that number do not drink, well, that means just twice as many drinks for those that do take liquor. And that was for distilled liquors alone. Beer and other beverages were not included in that.

Can you realize the largeness of the evil and what a hold it has? But it does not make any one better and it does not help a man to get a job.

The railroads don't want a drinking man, and the large stores and commercial houses have no use for the man. Only the other day one of the large wholesale firms in Chicago issued orders to its representatives that they were to have nothing to do with the saloons. Was it because that firm wished to better the community where its goods are sold that it did this? No, it was because it is after the dollars and cents, and it realizes that a travelling man cannot afford badness if he drinks.

"Even the leading liquor dealers realize that there is no argument in favor of drinking. Their argument stands no much last year that the men and women want it and they must supply that want. Their sole argument is: Can you compete ninety million people to give up the habit by an edict of the law?

Most physicians agree that its use as a medicine is necessary only in extreme cases and all physicians say that its excessive use is a prolific cause for disease. Sociologists say that it is a prolific cause of poverty and criminals a prolific cause of crime. The liquor dealers admit that the excessive use of liquor is a prolific cause of disease and agree that mankind should be educated to avoid it altogether or use it moderately. The president of the Model League League in a letter to Dr. Lyman Abbott, which the doctor has published in his paper, admits that there is no argument for the use of liquor and his only argument for the business today is that they are interested in the business because the people want it, and what the people want they must have.

When you come to a financial basis you know the saloon does not pay for what it costs. If the saloons were done away with, it would do away with a lot of poverty.

The reform will not come all at once. You cannot eliminate all evil all at once. If the saloons were closed tomorrow you would find a lot of men who have appetites so strong that if they could not get it here they would go elsewhere for their liquor. But at the end of five years you would find a vast change. Many of these would have either given up the habit or would have become more moderate in their use of liquor. Everyone should become an agitator against the saloons. Every one of you should sign the petition to vote them out of the city. The last thing is when you go to the booth to cast your vote, honorably and quietly. In the presence of your God and as your own conscience dictates. When a man does that, I have no fear as to how he will vote. When you get men to vote that way the problem will be solved.

STEPHEN B. KENYON HAS PASSED AWAY

Highly Respected Pioneer Resident Of Janesville and Rock County Died This Morning.

Stephen B. Kenyon, an honored and respected citizen of Janesville and one of the pioneer residents of Rock county, passed away this morning at 4:45 at his late residence, 326 Milton avenue. The deceased had been ill for over a year. He was born in Oswego county, New York, September 30, 1829, and, as a descendant of colonial ancestors who settled in the colony of Rhode Island, he learned the trade of blacksmithing there and followed it for thirty-six years. He was married in Oswego county, N. Y. to Miss Ellen Gillett of Oswego and in 1857 came West with his wife, settling in Clinton. The same year he removed to this city, resuming his occupation at the blacksmith's trade. Mr. Kenyon retired from this business in 1882. He was appointed Superintendent of the poor for the northern half of Rock county in 1883 and held that office honorably and creditably for twenty-five years, following health and eyesight forcing him to retire a year ago. His first wife died on Thanksgiving Day, 1891. He was again married—to Miss Dora Gillett—May 4, 1903. He died the widow he is survived by two brothers, one residing in Fulton, New York, and the other in Montevista, Colo. A sister, Mrs. Ursula Woodcock of Otsego, Mich., died on the third of March. A nephew, John Woodcock, is now living in Otsego. Funeral services will be held from the home, 326 Milton avenue, Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Cornelius, William Green.
After an extended illness of over three years Cornelius William Green succumbed to death Sunday morning at 7 o'clock. The deceased was born at Newent, Gloucestershire, England and came to Janesville in 1876. He has since resided here. Mr. Green leaves to mourn his loss a widow and three brothers: James of Los Angeles, Richard of Canada, and John Green of Darshan, England. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

D. H. Schell.
D. H. Schell, a well known retired farmer of the town of Plymouth, who resided in this vicinity for the past 55 years, departed from this life Sunday, March 20, at 4:30 p. m. Mr. Schell was born in Hanover, Germany, July 5, 1831. One hundred years he had been living at the home of his son, E. C. Schell, near Hanover. He leaves to mourn his loss four sons and two daughters. They are: Fred, Charles, William, and Christ Schell. Mrs. Charles Ponach and Mrs. Leonhard Krohnfeldt, his wife, Friedrike Schell, died in 1903. Mr. Schell was a man of sturdy qualities and was well beloved by his many friends and neighbors. He was the founder of the Immanuel church at Hanover. Funeral services will be held from the church Thursday afternoon at one o'clock.

Mrs. Bridget Nolan.
Funeral services for the late Mrs. Bridget Nolan were held this morning from St. Patrick's church, Rev. Fr. James J. McGrath officiating. The services were largely attended and the floral offerings were many and beautiful. The pallbearers: Michael Mulcahy, William Dulin, John Walsh, Thomas Stuck, James Clough, Patrick Nash. Can You Heat as Economically as this?

Mr. E. H. Polton, City.

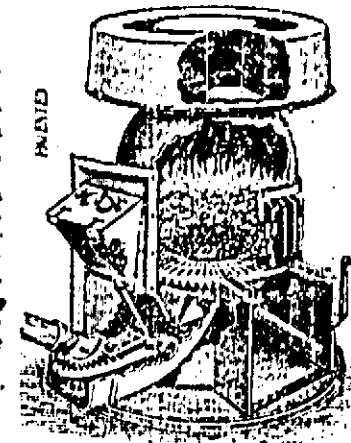

Dear Sir: In reply to your inquiry as to how I like the Peer-Wilhamen Under-Fire Furnace which I have had in my house for two seasons, I will say that it has given perfect satisfaction.

In comparison with the Thresher Thubar that I had before this seems to give even heat, with less dust, and no fumes; at each time when I attend to it, the Under-Fire requires a little more labor, but it does not require attention so often. In the colder weather I look after it twice daily, but once a day is enough when it is moderate, and the fire will keep 48 hours or longer. Most important, the Under-Fire has cut down my fuel expense about half.

Regarding coal, I find the No. 3 Carverville very satisfactory.

Yours very truly,

E. TRACY BROWN.

Painless Dentistry

My Painless work is reaching out tremendously among the neighboring cities.

Just for illustration, on last Saturday I had patients from Atton, Evansville, Footville and two from Clinton, one from Minnesota, besides several from 4 to 8 miles on either side of town.

Today I had one from Montana who waited till on a visit here before having her Dental work done.

I also extracted two teeth for a timid patient just now who—like all the rest—said, "Dr. Richards, you never hurt a bit."

FIRM OBDURATE, UNION LEATHER WORKERS STRIKE

BASSETT AND ECHLIN HARNESS FACTORY BADLY CRIPPLED.

WANT AN EIGHT-HOUR DAY

Thirty-Four Union Men Walk Out
When Demands Are Refused—
Nichols Harness Company
Grants Demands.

Work at the Bassett and Echlin Harness factory came to a sudden stop this morning when thirty-four members of the International United Brotherhood of Leather Workers on Horse Goods struck for higher wages and shorter hours. The men demanded an eight hour day, with ten hours pay for those men employed by the day, and a fifteen per cent increase on all pieces for piece workers. This was refused by the company and the men immediately walked out.

There was no trouble experienced but the strikers have expressed their determination of staying out until their demands are granted or an agreement reached between the executive officers of the national organization and the manufacturers.

Exactly the same demands were made by the union of the J. C. Nichols Harness Co, but the latter concern has agreed to both the shorter working day and the increase in pay so that this factory has not been affected.

Developments in this city are but a part of a nation wide movement for better wages and shorter hours made by the United Leather Workers and the present strike does not come as a surprise although it was hoped that the Janesville concern would not be forced to close.

On Fe. 14 notice was sent to every manufacturer of harnesses and horse goods from the national headquarters that the union had decided that shorter hours and better pay had become necessary. This notice, a copy of which was received by both local concerns, gives a good idea of the men's reasons for their demands. After a long preamble, in which the men give their reasons for making the demands contained in the following paragraph, deny that a shorter working day will limit the output, make a claim for a more just division of the profits of the business and ask that working conditions be improved. In order to keep men in the trade, the notice ends

as follows:

"After due consideration of conditions existing in our craft, we have decided that, beginning Monday,

March 2, 1910, eight hours shall constitute a day's work, with no reduction in wages for week hands, and an increase of 15 per cent on all prices for piece hands. In order that we may know the position you take in this matter, we would ask you to give us a definite answer by Tuesday, March 17, 1910."

The above communication was signed by the officers of Local No. 39,

Fred Schroeder, Pres., Jas. A. Mc-

Beth, Secy-Treas., and Albert E.

Davis, Frank Clark and Adolph

Berk, members of the strike committee.

When asked what the Bassett &

Echlin Co. intended to do, Pres. F. B.

Echlin stated this morning that as a meeting of the board of directors was necessary before a definite policy could be determined upon, he could not state positively what course he would pursue.

"But we will not accede to the demands as far as certain, however," said Mr. Echlin. "We have made a careful study of the increased cost of production that would necessarily follow and find that it would practically mean running the plant at a loss. At present we will continue our work in the job department which has not been affected, ship out what business we now have on hand and wait developments."

Among other things, Mr. Echlin stated that nearly seventy men had left their benches this morning and that about without exception they were unwilling to go but were competed to do so or violate the orders of the national officers. Compromise on a nine hour basis had also been refused.

Mr. Echlin also stated that, from what he had learned, the strike was manifestly unfair in that only a few of the locals had been called out, leaving large centers, such as Cleveland, Milwaukee, Omaha and other cities, unaffected. To compete with these factories in the open market under the proposed handicap would be industrial suicide.

These assertions, on the other hand, are contradicted by officers of the union who say that at the meeting of the executive board of the union and the representatives of the manufacturers' association in Cleveland on March 16, the manufacturers absolutely refused to consider the eight-hour day but said they would consider a nine-hour proposition with in a given length of time.

This was too indefinite for the union officers who said that as time would be consumed in consideration of the proposition, it would probably be May before it was finally decided and at that time, the manufacturers could afford to shut down as the season would be practically at a close.

It was also stated that there were no shifts in the organization but that the men had voted almost uniformly for a strike should their demands be refused. The demand made upon the local factories has also been made throughout the United States and Canada and unless it is granted, 125 locals, numbering over 5,000 men will go out.

Just what the outcome of the present difficulty will be, is, of course, a matter of conjecture, but the propects are bright for a long struggle.

WHAT MAXFIELD HAS DONE

Shortly after I announced myself as a candidate Mr. Maxfield came to me and we agreed not to carry on a newspaper campaign, and that we would publish nothing except our announcements. His article in the Gazette Saturday evening and the Recorder Sunday morning is so manifestly unfair to me and so grossly misleading to the voters that I feel it my duty to reply and publish a few facts.

By instruction he says that "with the Water and Gas companies."

This is absolutely false and he knows it. I am not backed or favored by any

When a married man wants a meal

Separate Remedies, Each Devised
for the Treatment of a Particular Ailment.

There is no "cure-all" among the Rexall Remedies. There are different and separate medicines, each one devised for a certain human ailment or a class of ailments closely allied. For instance, Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are recommended for the positive relief of stomach irritation, indigestion, flatulence and dyspepsia. They are rich in Bismuth-Subnitrate, Pepsin and Carnaunates. They are prepared by special processes which perfect and enhance the great remedial value of these well-known medicinal agents. This remedy sells for 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per package. Every one suffering from stomach disorder should try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, insomuch as they cost nothing if they do not satisfy.

Remember, The Smith Drug Co. store is the only store in Janesville where these remedies may be obtained, and every one in need of medicine is urged to investigate and take advantage of the frank and generous manner in which they are sold.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

W. HOEVER has more blessings of any kind than he can use and lots of them he wastes! Instead of passing them on in the right direction, I think, commits one of the unforgivable sins.

I have two neighbors, both have fruit trees that produce more fruit than they themselves can make use of.

One gives generous basketfuls to his friends and neighbors, most of whom have fruit trees of their own, or if they have not, can afford to buy all the fruit they want—meas what he wants himself, and either lets the rest rot on the trees or in his cellar.

From the other neighbor at least a dozen people in the town who have no orchards of their own and cannot afford to buy all the fruit they would like, are treated to huge basketfuls. He does not stint himself at all to do this, but he does not let a pear or an apple go to waste.

The picking and sorting and distributing of the fruit means much time and labor, of course, but he says that he considers that no owner of these trees it becomes his duty to see that their product blesses as many as possible, and those to whom it would mean the most.

Have YOU any spare blessings that you are not passing on?

Don't think apples and pears are the only ones, and think yourself exempt if you have none of them.

What are you doing with your blessings when you finish reading them?

By the efforts of my little mother our magazines when we have read them pass through half a dozen families before they are finally sold for old paper.

Do yours? Are there any old clothes hanging in your wardrobe or closets which you will not use again?

If there are, I think they belong to other people who do need them, and that in keeping them you make yourself a moral thief.

Is there in your closets any old linen that you could spare? A hundred—a thousand—hospitals need it. Will you be wicked enough to keep it from them?

And then there are other besides material blessings that one has no right to let go to waste—an ability to read aloud acceptably, a musical talent, a sunny disposition—these are other things that you ought to share with those who need them, and that in this case doesn't always mean the poor—at least, not the financially poor.

I found this passage the other day in one of my favorite books: "I had often occasion to notice the use that was made of fragments and small opportunities. In Crawford, the rose bushes that were gathered were used to make a potpourri for some one who had no garden; the little bunches of lavender flowers sent to screw the drawer of some town dweller or to burn in the chamber of some invalid; the apples stuck full of cloves to be heated and smell pleasantly in poor Miss Brown's room. Things which many would despise and actions which it seemed scarcely worth while to perform, were all attended to in Crawford."

It seems to me that if only "fragments and small opportunities" might be made use of all over the world as they were in that dear old town it would be a good deal better world.

NOVEL MUSICAL INSTRUMENT

Combination of Brass and Strings Produces Sounds That Peculiarly Mellow the Tone.

A novel musical instrument, which is a combination of brass and stringed instruments and a blend of the tones of both, has been devised by a North Dakota man. The affair consists of a neckpiece similar to that of a violin, fastened between twin horns, shaped like the letter U. The bridge of the violin is at the point of intersection of the horns, two diaphragms connecting them. The lower end of the handle rests on a brace connecting the horns. The player either uses a bow, and play upon the instrument as he would upon a violin, or he can pick at the strings with his fingers, as in using a banjo. In either case the sound thus produced is transmitted through the horns, making a peculiar mellow tone.

"I always luncheons alone—says he's got to have a chance to do some thinking on the inside and that he has put over a lot of things just by taking a noonday luncheon by himself."

Suggestive, is it not?

The most of us do our thinking from the outside in rather than from the inside out.

That is to say, we are so much in human contact that our thinking is suggested by others rather than auto-suggested—from inside ourselves.

Most of us are too busy to get acquainted with ourselves.

And this is especially true of young persons.

They live externally—in contact with others. They live in a perpetual round of "something doing," and live minutes of real solitude in a torture.

And this is true especially of city people.

In the country there is plenty of solitude. A man grows up with himself. And perhaps that is why, other things being equal, the country boy succeeds in the city. He has had a chance to know himself.

His thinking has been from the inside out. The city boy's thinking has been from the outside in.

One of the best possible things that can happen any human being is the regular opportunity of confronting himself.

Self communion makes for individual, personal force.

The old Greek was right when he said the first thing in importance is, "Know thyself."

A man should live by himself a part of his time, talk to himself, advise himself, argue with himself, entertain himself.

So this successful Chieng man has discovered that, depending upon outside forces rather than upon inside forces does not make a man strong.

Young man or young woman, you should cultivate yourself.

If you are to get on in the world it must be because of the forces and the graces inside yourself.

You can learn much from the world, much that is necessary to know, but if every day you will do some honest, individual thinking by yourself and for yourself, and for yourself you will have a great deal more.

If you are bored when you are by yourself you are in a bad way.

BATTLE MAY MAKE
NORRIS A SENATOR

Nebraskan Who Led Fight on Cannon
Has Chance to Succeed Burkett.

Washington, Mar. 21.—Congressman George R. Norris, who led the fight against Speaker Cannon, and who, his friends claim, has a good chance of succeeding Senator Burkett, issued the following statement after the battle was over:

"The change in the rules of the house is in the interest of representative government. It takes dictatorial power from the speaker and places at the command of the house opportunity to have brought forth from committees for consideration legislative matters in which any representative number of members of the house are interested.

"An enlarged committee necessarily means a broader appreciation of the true sentiment of the country, and of all its actions. Ten men from ten sections of the country have a more perfect appreciation of the desires of the country in legislative matters than one man from one section.

"Mark you, I have held that the speaker as chairman of the committee on rules dominated that committee. The speaker as a member of the house represents a single district no larger than my district; not so large a territory, nor so diversified in interest as many other districts represented. Therefore, his viewpoint of legislation needs to be restricted. But, because he is speaker he dominates to the disadvantage of the entire house membership and the injury of the country. This needed correction."

"My fight was not against Cannon; it was against Cannon's control of the committee on rules and the injustices likely to flow therefrom. With the assistance of others who believed with me that the power of the speaker should be curbed and restricted and through Democratic aid, we have won. I am making no war on the Republican party. I am a Republican, working for party success. I believe what we Republicans have done will make for party success."

State Officials Draw Out Damaging Evidence in Insurance Inquiry.

New York, Mar. 21.—Hurting question after question at reluctant witnesses and reading to them in rapid succession letters and telegram that told in unmistakable terms of the activities of fire insurance companies in influencing legislation at Albany, William H. Hotchkiss, state superintendent of insurance, and his attorney, Alfred Hurrell, forced startling revelations at the fire insurance inquiry.

It was shown that large sums of money had been raised to procure or thwart legislation between 1901 and 1906. These payments, the majority of which were to law firms, ranged from $700 to $17,500.

The three largest payments were of $17,500 to the law firm of Sherman & Sterling in 1905 for work at Albany in connection with legislation then pending; of $15,000 in 1906 for the same purpose, and of $8,311 to Elijah R. Kennedy, member of the insurance firm of Weed & Kennedy.

Timothy L. Woodruff, now chairman of the Republican state committee, the late Senator John Raines, Representative George E. Mathy and former Assemblyman James A. Riordan of New York were among those mentioned in the testimony.

San Francisco, Mar. 21.—Police stopped the world's champion Marathon dancer here after six of the contestants had been dancing 15 hours and six minutes. The old record was 14 hours and 42 minutes. Doctors who were in attendance advised the police that further physical exertion on the part of the dancers might result fatally.

The great new science of CHIROPRACTIC (KIRK-ROTH-PAK-TRIC) has shown that in order to be made well, it is necessary well if it is necessary to remove the cause of the affection and that treating symptoms with medicine is not as practical as the Chiropractic adjustments. Every nerve in the entire body which controls every function of the organism of the entire human system and every nerve (100,000,000 in all) pass through the spine. When certain nerves do not perform their functions you become sick. This way to remove the cause of the affection is to get the nerves that are not working. This is done by Chiropractic adjustments of the spine. Almost every ailment is curable by the Chiropractic science. If you suffer from sickness of any kind, call for free consultation.

CALIFORNIA LAND OF THE PROMISEDINTERESTING PEN PICTURE OF THE BEAUTIFUL PACIFIC
STATE.

VIEWED FOR FIRST TIME

William Watt Written From Reno of Recent Trip to California—Tells of Meeting Janesville Peop-ple in West.

It is over a year since former Alderman William W. Watt left Janesville to make his home in Reno, Nevada. Since that time the Gazette has published from time to time most interesting letters from him. He has told the readers of the Gazette of the west as he has seen it and about Reno and also in the desert that is known as the famous desert of America. Janesville people who know Mr. Watt delight in reading his letters and the following account of his recent trip to California and the former Janesville residents both he and his wife met will be more than interesting to Janesville people.

Editor Gazette:

Eight days spent in visiting the many points of interest in southern California, is the pleasure that Mrs. Watt and myself have just passed through. After an all night ride over the mountains from Nevada we arrived in the beautiful city of Sacramento which is the capital of the state and a place of 40,000 population. Although Reno enjoys excellent climate the year round the conditions are not such as to allow the cultivation of oranges, lemons, and other tropical fruits, so when we arrived in Sacramento we found our first glimpse of streets lined with orange trees all loaded down with fruit. Monterey palm trees filled the many parks and the sight was not only a novel one to us but a regular paradise in all that the word implies. For the past fifty years this city of Sacramento has been asleep but now sits in the boom order and in both the residence and business sections buildings by the hundreds are under construction. Five hundred new houses are now being constructed and a model hotel costing a half million has just been completed. In the most valuable part of the business section are yet to be seen one story brick buildings with the old fashioned wooden awnings still protruding out over the walks.

From Sacramento it is a six hour ride to San Francisco. Your train lands in the city of Oakland and from here you take the ferry to the city across the bay. The water trip takes just a half hour and it is one long to be remembered. On the way across the boat was obliged to shelter speed on account of two of Uncle Sam's men of war that were just returning from Japan. After getting comfortably seated in our hotel we started out to "do the town." From that very hour until we returned to Reno we met former residents of the Bower City on all sides. From our hotel my wife called up Mrs. Perry Brown who makes her home in Oakland. While walking down Market street who should I meet but Otto Mann who still resides in Janesville and who is a man by trade. He said that there was all kind of work in Fresno at $7 per day. The next familiar face that we met was general Fred G. Miner, who for years made his home in Janesville where his father conducted a shoe store in the Hayes block. Fred is one of the few now in this wonderful city and from his offices on the top floor of a fourteen story skyscraper he maps out the work for a score of solicitors who cover the western country for one of the largest wholesale grocery houses in the west. We both enjoyed the hospitality at dinner out at the famous Cliff House which is at Golden Gate park on the edge of the Pacific. Our second day in Fresno we took an auto ride to all points of interest in the heart of the business section you would hardly know that any part of it had been destroyed as the result of the earthquake and the fire. Thousands of buildings have been erected and work is still going on in every section and on a much grander scale than before. Ten and fourteen story buildings are common. The wonderful Fairmont, St. Francis and Palace hotels, all new and costing millions, are well worthy a visit. Golden Gate park is one of the great sights of the park is one of the great sights of the city. We spent one evening in Chinatown and for the first time saw hundreds of Chinese women who dress like the men. Chinese children roamed the streets and the little tots were dressed in costly silks and all looked the picture of happiness. To go into full details regarding this wonderful city of San Francisco would take columns of cold type.

WHAT'S THE USE
Sticking to a Habit when it Means Discomfort?Old King Coffee knocks subjects out totally flat at times, and there is no possible doubt of what did it. A Michigan woman gives her experience:"I used to have liver trouble nearly all of the time and took medicine which relieved me only for a little while. Then every once in a while I would be suddenly doubled up with an awful agony in my stomach. It seemed as though every time I took a breath I would die. No one could afford for any more and live."Finally I got down so sick with catarrh of the stomach that I could not turn over in bed, and my stomach did not digest even milk. The doctor finally told me that if I did not give up drinking coffee I would surely die, but I felt I could not give it up."However, Husband brought home a package of Postum and it was made strictly according to directions. It was the only thing that would stay on my stomach, and I soon got so ill that it very much.""Gradually I began to get better, and week by week gained in strength and health. Now I am in perfect condition, and I am convinced that the whole cause of my trouble was coffee drinking, and my getting better was due to leaving off coffee and taking Postum.""A short time ago I tasted some coffee and found, to my astonishment, that I did not care anything about it.
I never have to take medicine any more. I hope you will use this letter for the benefit of those suffering from the poisonous effects of coffee."Read the little book, "There's a Reason," in plugs. "There's a Reason."Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.Hotel Howell is located in the very heart of the best business section and "Jim" is enjoying prosperity on all sides. In fact he is unable to accommodate the people so great is the demand at his hotel. When I informed "Jim" that a certain Janesville business man wrote me stating that the Bower City would be better off today if "Jim" McLean were there in charge of municipal affairs the former alderman said: "Not me! I should have been in this country twenty years ago."I had no more than left the hotel when who should I meet on the street but Attorney Ward Stevens, former clerk of the court for Rock county.
Ward is also enjoying prosperity dealing in real estate and of late has pulled off several important deals, just as I was to enter my hotel who should I meet but Arthur Baird, formerly one of the top-notchers here in the real estate business and later around his private $5,000 auto. Half way between Los Angeles and Pasadena Baird is Baldwin which he and his brother George, founded, and which is only twenty minutes' ride out on the great electric line in America. Baldwin contains scores of beautiful homes and several costly business blocks are now in course of erection there. The Baird boys have made a fortune out of this addition alone.
Among their late buyers is Charles Noyes, formerly of Janesville. Arthur Baird is a member of the famous Jonathan club which is one of the finest private clubs in the world. Here we enjoyed his hospitality at dinner.

The Coming Universal Use of DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATORS

The same economical considerations which have already brought about the practically universal use of creamery and factory sizes of DE LAVAL Cream Separators are absolutely certain to accomplish the same result in the use of farm and dairy sizes of such machines within the next five years. This is no mere advertising claim but the simple statement of a conclusion based on the logic of facts as positive as to outcome as the solution of a mathematical problem.

The same considerations of greater capacity; closer separation, particularly under hard conditions; better quality of cream and butter; more economical operation, and greater durability are bound to ultimately accomplish the same result in the use of small as of large sizes of cream separators.

But naturally it requires longer and is vastly more of an undertaking to educate the 2,500 present and prospective American users of farm sizes of separators as to the importance of separator differences than the 12,000 users of creamery separators. Naturally it is more difficult to make a user appreciate a difference of $50 a year in results than a difference of $1,500, even though the difference of $50 may be relatively more to the user than the difference of $1,500.

Again, the users of factory or creamery sizes of separators have so much better sources of information. The use of the separator is a business with them. The results are known from day to day and year to year, and what one user accomplishes is readily comparable with the results of another. On the other hand, the great majority of users of farm and dairy sizes of separators know little of separators and cannot easily determine whether their results are as good as they should be or might be better under other circumstances. But the problem is bound to finally work out in the same way.

The DE LAVAL factory separator was invented 31 years ago and commenced to come into creamery use 28 years ago. Within a few years the original patents began to expire. 15 years ago there were a dozen makers of power cream separators on the market. Today the use of DE LAVAL factory machines exceeds 98 per cent and is almost literally universal. It has been so for five years. No effort is longer made to sell any other make of power separator.

The DE LAVAL hand separator was invented 23 years ago and commenced to come into farm use about 20 years ago. As the earlier patents expired there were more than 30 makers of such machines on the market five years ago. Today there are less than a dozen and not more than five which have a sale worth counting at all. Each year the number decreases and their sales become fewer and more difficult.

What is true in America in this way is true in even greater degree elsewhere throughout the world. In many countries the sale of DE LAVAL machines is now almost universal. Dollars-and-cents differences in product mean more there than to American farmers. The sale of cheap "mail order" separators has not been attempted elsewhere, and would-be competing manufacturers and dealers have never been so unscrupulous in making the unjustified "claims" that so many American buyers have accepted as facts.

It makes an AVERAGE DIFFERENCE OF FIFTY DOLLARS A YEAR whether the farm user of a separator uses the DE LAVAL or some other kind. It will make that difference this year and go on making it until a DE LAVAL is used. A DE LAVAL catalogue helps to explain this and is to be had for the asking, as well as an Improved DE LAVAL machine for practical demonstration of it to any intending separator buyer.

The countess smiled. "You have such an odd way of putting things. It wouldn't be necessary for you to enter the most exclusive sets, but there are plenty of nice people that you could meet—that is, if you wanted to change your associates."

"You think it would be a good scheme, do you?"

"Oh, splendid! You'll not mind my speaking to you about it, will you? You see, I have wanted for a long time to do something of the kind for someone. Our bishop has urged me to go into home missionary work. I have tried, but the villagers here are so unresponsive that I haven't had much success."

"Well, you can try any kind of reform on me that you like."

"Oh, the bishop will be delighted when I tell him!"

"It's what you might call a stroke of luck for both of us, isn't it?" queried the Cherub. "But just how are you going to tackle the job?"

"I'm sure I don't know." Perplexity dwelt in the brown eyes for an instant. "It is my idea, you know, that personal influence and example count for a good deal. If I could only talk to you about your reckless habits!"

"Well, why not? There'll be all day tomorrow."

"But probably I shall not see you again. Papa doesn't expect me to."

"Oh, say, you're not going to shut up in your rooms all day, are you?"

"Except for a little walk in the garden right after breakfast."

"About 9 o'clock, eh? I'll be there."

"No, no, you mustn't! That is, you mustn't plan to be there. Of course, it should be purely by accident!"

"I'll see to that part of it, all right. You'll be in the garden, will you?"

The countess hesitated. Then she half whispered, "Possibly," gave him an elusive glance and fled as if to escape the results of her daring.

CHAPTER III.

As to the matter of raiment, Mr. Cherub Devine was fastidious but in one particular. He was fond of fancy waistcoats. His fastidiousness began and ended with waistcoats. His trousers and coats were invariably of the same cloth and cut, summer and winter, year in and year out. His waistcoats betrayed a catholic taste for color and variety. Whenever he felt like indulging himself or celebrating a victory or forgetting a defeat he went to that part of it, all right. You'll be in the garden, will you?"

"You, I ought to go directly back."

"But how about the reform? I thought we were to have a talk and that you were going to give me some pointers on breaking into good society. You're not going to quit like this, are you?"

The countess shook her head.

"I was mistaken. It was very silly of me to make such a promise. But I—Oh, can't you see? I ought not to be here talking to you at all."

"Well, why not? What's the particular matter with me, anyway?"

"It's only—only that—" The countess, glancing about in desperation, "Well, I will ask you. Do you consider yourself a gentleman?"

For a moment Mr. Devine stared at her speechlessly. He had insisted on knowing, and now that he had her answer he was too much astonished to frame a reply. He had expected nothing of this kind. The question opened

As he was "travelling light," he had brought to Newington Acre a bare half dozen of them, and of these he had narrowed the choice to two—one a creation of tobacco brown silk with red dots in it, the other a white plaque with buttons of smoked pearl. Which should he wear for a Sunday morning stroll in the garden? In the end he tossed a quarter. The brown silk won,

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me. I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.—Mrs. John G. McNamara, 215 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

"Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs. Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health."

"And I'm not, eh?"

"Oh, no, not I did not mean to say that. I couldn't say it. I—I do not know you well enough. I merely asked you to decide for yourself."

The countess bit her lip from vexation. She was cornered and knew it. But was she beaten? Did you ever see a woman defeated by mere logic?

"That's unfair," she replied reproachfully. "You know I haven't said anything of the kind. All I did say was that I ought to go back, and I must."

"Then I suppose I'll just have to get right on going to the dogs," observed the Cherub deviously. "I didn't mention the Cherub."

"Probably not. He came to America in 1815."

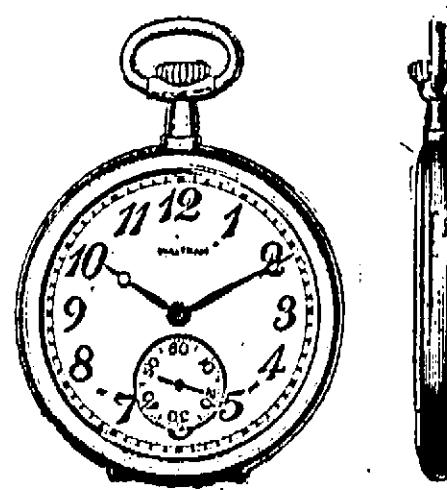

TO BE CONTINUED.

In Burns' Land.

The "Auld Brig," over which Tam o' Shanter fled when his mare lost her tail, is no longer used, but is protected as a sacred historical relic. A new bridge has been built a few yards above it over the "Spanie Doozy."

WALTHAM WATCHES

The Authentic American Watch

It is universally acknowledged that the United States has produced the best machinery in the world. American agricultural implements, electrical machinery, locomotives, clocks and Waltham Watches lead in the markets of the world. As long ago as the Centennial Exhibition in 1876, the Commissioner from Switzerland visited the Waltham Watch factory and picked out a watch at random from a lot of others. When he returned to Switzerland he told the Swiss Watch Manufacturers that not one Swiss watch in 50,000 would compare with that Waltham watch he had picked up haphazard at the Waltham Factory. A statement even more true now than then.

We advise you to buy a Waltham Watch adjusted to temperature and position and to buy only from a jeweler because he can regulate it to your personal habit and occupation. Never buy from Mail Order Houses. They cannot have the thorough knowledge or the equipment for regulating high grade watches.

He Had a Chance.

"Wouldn't you just as lief have had a little brother as a little sister?" asked Margaret's mother. The little one hesitated a moment and then said, "Well, mother, boys are rather noisy and troublesome, but what with my bringing up and papa's bringing up and your bringing up to me might not have turned out to be so very bad!" Delineator.

The Ideal Listener.

An attentive listener is a joy, but an inattentive one is a trial to the soul. Listen with your eyes, your whole face, your heart and your mind and you will achieve a triumph. Look directly at the person talking to you and never allow your gaze to be deflected to other things which may be happening about you, for this at once shows lack of genuine interest in what is being said to you, and naturally gives offense.

Essential Parts of an Egg.

The white of the egg and the yolk both serve as a storehouse of food for the young chick during the process of incubation. Though differing materially among themselves in form and structure, the eggs of all animals are found to consist of the same essential parts—the germ cell, the yolk and the yolk membrane.
